Akwe:kon Celebrated its 20th Anniversary in 2011.

Nya:weh Skano!! Welcome new and returning Akwe:kon residents!! We are looking forward to working with you and helping in your adjustment to both Cornell and Akwe:kon in this 2013-2014 academic year!

We would just like to give you a brief (written) tour of Akwe:kon and provide a head start with some of the terms and names you will become familiar with over the course of the year.

Akwe:kon, pronounced 'a-gway-go', opened in the fall of 1991 as part of Cornell's American Indian Program. Akwe:kon is the first university residence in the country purposely built to celebrate Native heritage. In the Mohawk language, Akwe:kon means "all of us." The spirit of this Haudenosaunee (also known as Six Nations or Iroquois) word is reflected in the inclusiveness that Akwe:kon offers to its residents and the broader community. Akwekon is home to 35 Native and non-Native students who share a common interest in past and contemporary Native/indigenous cultures, values and issues.

More than just a residential experience, Akwe:kon is a vibrant center of activity for the Native community at Cornell and beyond. The building is an artistic achievement, representing an institutional commitment to Native peoples and Cornell's relationship with Native communities throughout New York State. Its architecture and design elements are living tools that represent Haudenosaunee culture and history, as well as the philosophy of community support and leadership development within the American Indian community at Cornell.

Akwe:kon is located on Cornell's north campus. Two full service community centers with dining halls, a recreation facility and several other residence halls are all a short walk away, with a walk to central campus and most of your classes being a mere 10-15 minutes.

The common space includes the community room, kitchen, library, computer lab, laundry facilities, study rooms, TV lounge, and the multipurpose room (MPR).

Seneca Nation Wolf Clan from the Seneca Allegany territories, I am the Residence Hall Director of Akwe:kon.

I am a graduate of Syracuse University, where I was a valuable member of the lacrosse team for four years, I have extensive experience in mentoring students. I also bring a global perspective on Indigenous issues with a commitment to renewable energy and sustainable choices for healthy living. My Native American cultural expertise is based on experience as a Haudenosaunee cultural interpreter and data analysis at the Rochester Museum and Science Center, working with Pueblo communities in Taos, New Mexico and service teaching in São José Dos Campos, São Paulo, Brasil.

I have recently completed my first full year as a Residence Hall Director here at Akwe:kon and I am looking forward to the upcoming school year.

I live in Akwekon with my family - Amanda my fiancée, Selena 7 year old daughter, and our year old Boston terrier Weni. Amanda and I are also expecting our newest addition to our family in August!

The students of Akwe:kon have been very welcoming to me and my family and we appreciate the opportunity to live and work with the Residents of the community.

We look forward to meeting all of the incoming residents and we are excited about programs planned for this upcoming school year.

See you all soon!!

Akwe:kon Student Staff

The Akwe:kon student staff consists of two Resident Advisors (RAs), and an Office Assistant (OA). The student staff is hired through the American Indian Program and Residential Programs. The RAs are live-in student staff members who have been trained in educational/social programming, counseling, crisis management and who are helpful with locating various resources on campus. They are here to help you, whether you need information, want to plan a program, or just need someone to talk to. There is a RA from Akwe:kon or from the nearby Ecology House on call every night after 7pm, and all day during weekends. The RHD and RAs are assisted and supported in their work by the Office Assistant. The OA keeps the office running smoothly and is responsible for maintaining and updating the bulletin boards as well as the Akwe:kon Library (which houses a fair amount of Native literature). The Student Staff are all here because they care about you and want to make your experience as successful and positive as possible!

Faculty Fellows

Faculty fellows are full-time Cornell University faculty members who have a strong interest in undergraduate students and maintain a relationship with a particular Residence Hall. At Akwe:kon the goal of the Faculty Fellows program is to involve two faculty members from the American Indian Program in the lives of students and to promote meaningful relationships outside of the classroom setting. Faculty Fellows host our weekly Community Dinners, and plan events and programs with the Akwe:kon staff for all residents of Akwe:kon to enjoy.
